GAL Manufacturing Company LLC debuts new responsive design corporate website

GAL Manufacturing Company LLC is excited to provide customers with a richer, more engaging user experience with the introduction of its new website, specially tailored to the needs of today's mobile and PC-based audiences. The responsive design website features a dynamic, rebranded corporate appearance; easily accessible libraries of sales, product and informational literature; offers a media section posting the latest corporate news and advertisements; and features a constantly updated calendar detailing GAL attended events.

Steven Ort, Vice President of Sales and Marketing, sees the new responsive website as a tool that will benefit customers by allowing them to obtain useful information more quickly, and aid GAL Manufacturing in its continuing effort to deliver unsurpassed service. "Providing our customers with more accessible and comprehensible information makes them far more productive. Which we believe will make their experience with our company more satisfying and rewarding overall."

GAL Mainsite/frontpage

Implementing a responsive format design, the website will provide a more satisfying user experience to the growing numbers who prefer to access the Internet with smart media devices.

Increased Media/Information

The site will also offer an increased focus on customer outreach, keeping consumers up-to-date with all that's going on at GAL, and providing easy access to newly published materials.
